

Clinical trials

bring substantial benefits to the patients and society

In clinical trials

patients receive novel treatments that are not available for patients outside the trial.

Study physicians and nurses gain knowledge and experience from the latest treatment practises.

In clinical trials,

the pharmaceutical company is responsible for the costs of the drugs, treatment implementation and closer monitoring than in standard care.

The average value of care provided in one clinical trial is approximately

€1.2M.

The societal value of one clinical trial to healthcare average around

€10M.

The cumulative societal value of the clinical trials initiated 2018 - 2023 was approximately €5.3B.

